A rich and colourful history hath gin

The first confirmed date for the production of gin is the early 17th century in Holland, although claims have been made that it was produced prior to this in Italy. In Holland it was produced as a medicine. To make it more palatable, the Dutch started to flavour it with juniper, which had medicinal properties of its own. Even before this, British soldiers serving in Holland were given ‘Dutch courage’, a juniper-flavoured spirit, to warm their bodies and hearts before battle.

*“Little nips of whisky, little drops of gin,
Make a lady wonder where on earth she’s bin” (Anon)*

It soon became a popular drink in England, its popularity increasing during the reign of William and Mary. These Protestant monarchs discouraged the importation of brandy from the Catholic French and instead promoted the local production of gin by abolishing taxes and licensing fees. In 1730 London had over 7,000 shops that sold only spirits and gin consumption rose to incredible heights. ‘Mother’s Ruin’ got its name from this dark period in England.

The problem was tackled by introducing The Gin Act at midnight on 29 September 1736, which made gin prohibitively expensive. Riots broke out and the law was widely and openly broken. The Gin Act was repealed in 1742 and a new policy, which distillers helped to draft, was put into place. These changes led to more respectable firms embarking on the business of distilling and retailing gin and it became a drink of high quality, which it has remained.

London dry gin, with its subtle flavour made it easy to mix and it quickly became the staple ingredient in a host of fashionable drinks – including the world famous and enduring Martini.

Gin has come a long way from the ‘palaces’ of the early seventeenth century.

POOR MAN'S PUNCH

Our rendition of a Pimm's cup features Hendricks Gin, fresh watermelon, rose, honey and black pepper water, Sacred rosehip, lychee and cucumber-watermelon soda

The thirst for gin left for desperate measures, and by 1720 over 40 percent of London residents were distilling gin inside their own homes. Gin was produced so inexpensively that even the poor would call it comfort in London's harsh winter. £16

COMMODORE

Bombay Sapphire, house made ginger ale and English pear

In 1793 it was decided to give gin to officers of the Royal Navy as an indication of status, while their sailors drank rum. A "Commodore" is the next highest ranking in the Royal Navy after "Captain". £15

THE METROPOLITAN

Rhubarb infused Beefeater 24 Gin, strawberry cream, lime, lemon, egg white and vanilla soda
Gin Lane, the illustration of the "evils" of gin-drinking was published as a pair with 'Beer Street', as part of a campaign against the uncontrolled production and sale of cheap gin. The original copperplates for both prints are now in the Metropolitan Museum, New York. £16

LONDON MULE

Orange peel infused Bombay Sapphire, ginger beer and lime

Our spin on the classic Moscow Mule is named after the Anglo-Russian trade company who monopolized trade between England and Russia from 1555 to 1698. The Muscovy Company, who exported several Russian products by ship – occasionally vodka was on board, also enjoyed an 18th century revival of Anglo-Russian trade. £15

MOTHER'S RUIN

50-Pounds Gin, home-made strawberry Shrub, elderflower and green tea jelly

Distilled with dirty water, gin was used to warm the poor and silence their crying children. The unfiltered spirit was too much for the young. The death rate spiked and gin's darkest hour cast over London. £16

PRUDENCE

Sipsmith Gin, fresh basil and citrus vermouth

Inspired from the classic gimlet, this fresh twist of basil and lemon is named after the first active pot still in central London since 1820. £16

---

COLONY NI

Star of Bombay Gin, Saint Germain, lemon, spicy chilli and vanilla

Post the Gin craze saw London docks with the great ships of the east India company laden with botanicals from across the globe. This timed with the opening of high quality Gin distilleries made the perfect marriage to create the London Dry Gins of today. £16

---

GENEVA CRAZE

Gin Mare, Limoncello, caramel, lime and rosemary

When the parliament finally passed the first Gin Act in 1736, the nation (long addicted) rioted with mock funeral processions held by some in protest to, "The death of Madam Geneva". Gin madness however, continued to rise and reached an all-time high in 1743 when it was recorded that 2.2 gallons (8 litres) were consumed per person per year (of ALL ages). £16

Creative Concoctions

COCONUT & CHILLI MOJITO

Coconut rum, fresh chilli, lime and mint
A devilish concoction, sweet and spicy. £15

THE ANGEL'S SHARE MANHATTAN

Woodford Reserve Rye, Carpano Antica formula and bitters
The term 'angel share' is given to the loss of spirit in the ageing process.
This loss creates the magic in our three month old aged Manhattan. £16

IRON DUKE MARTINI

Martell VS Cognac, Mandarine Napoleon liqueur, lime and sugar syrup
Arthur Wellesley, the original Duke of Wellington, is remembered as a statesman and a victorious commander of war. He fought many battles in the far East and Spain, where mandarins were widely consumed. Enlistment not necessary for this Martini. £15

BACK IN BUSINESS

Grey Goose, rose liqueur, Crème de Peche, orange and grapefruit Topped with an Aperol and Champagne foam. £16

---

CREOLE

Bacardi carta blanca, Sailor Jerry, coconut, passion fruit, pineapple, lime, lychee, psychaud and laphroaig
A most comprehensive mix of culture, languages, traditions and flavours is what best represent the Tiki culture. Colours and flavours that inspire travels to far and exotic destinations. £16

Creative Concoctions

MAITA'I ROA AE

Jamaican white rum, extra old Barbados Gold rum, lime juice, simple syrup, Cointreau and grenadine, topped with almond foam
Victor J. Bergeron created the famous Mai-Thai cocktail for some friends who visited him from Tahiti on a warm summer day in 1944 in Oakland, California. A friend tasted it and cried out, "Maita'i roa ae!". The translation is "Out of this world!"
Enjoy our interpretation of this famous classic. £15

---

SMOKED MARGARITA

Pineapple infused Patron Silver, agave syrup, lime juice, Martini Rosso, Glenmorangie original and orange bitter
A modern 'mash-up' of two classics, the Rob Roy and Tommy's Margarita. £16

---

RUM OLD-FASHIONED

Bacon washed Bacardi 8, orange bitters, ginger ale, lemon and lime
In 1936 an "old timer", as he signed the letter, wrote to the Times newspaper in New York City to complain of how prohibition destroyed signature cocktails in America. Some listened, some did not, but if that old man was here today he would love what we have done to the classic old fashioned. Served on the rocks with a touch of history. £16

PLANTER'S BAY

Yaguara Cachaça Branca, Banks 7 rum, passion fruit and strawberries
The pirate James Plantain, known as the King of Planter's Bay, preyed upon ships of the British East India Company. Among his riches were luxury teas, gold, cash and luxurious fruits from the world over. £16
